"The arts are fundamental to our humanity. They ennoble and inspire us – fostering creativity, goodness, and beauty. The arts bring us joy, help us express our values, and build bridges between cultures. The arts are also a fundamental component of a healthy community – strengthening them socially, educationally and economically – benefits that persist even in difficult social and economic times." Arts improve academic performance. Students engaged in the arts learning have higher GPAs, standardized test scores and college-going rates as well as lower drop-out rates. These academic benefits are reaped by students regardless of socioeconomic status. 88 percent of Americans believe that arts are part of a well-rounded K-12 education. Arts and the economy. The production of all arts and cultural goods in the U.S. added $764 billion to the economy in 2015, including a $21 billion international trade surplus. The arts represented a larger share of the nation's economy (4.2 percent of GDP) than transportation, tourism, and agriculture (U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis). The nonprofit arts industry alone generates $166.3 billion in economic activity annually (spending by organizations and their audiences), which supports 4.6 million jobs and generates $27.5 billion in government revenue.
